Say Anything

Edwin Mccain

Say anything and save everything
If we say nothing this love will die
Give me just one word, you can scream or whisper
If you want to stay with me, tell me why, say anything
It's not that the words aren't there but they'd only fail my emotions
Just want to feel this way without chaining you down to some old cliche
You want the water in my hands and we stand waist deep in the ocean
It's bigger than the sea, it won't let me
Say just anything, 'cause I feel everything
I'd rather say nothing than the same old lines
And I think I'd give you more, something there's no words for
You don't have to hear me to feel me trying to say anything
Baby, I know you try but somtimes I still want to hear it
Even when the water's calm but lately it's just when there's something wrong
Why can't we splash around and hold on to that playful spirit

Oh, like we used to do and won't you
Say anything and save everything
If we say nothing this love will die
Give me just one word, you can scream or whisper
If you want to stay with me tell me why, say anything
And this love is true
And even if you
Call it by a different name
And it's still the same, so we'll
Say anything and feel everything
I want to be with you so this love can fly
We'll hang on every word and we'll scream, we'll whisper
This moment is waiting for you and I, say anything
And say anything
