

My Sun

Amorphis

Slowly turns the key of time
In the lock of promises broken
In mute silence of my space
I crouch under my yearning
Under my yearning The works of my gods receding now
Evade my grasping hands Her hair I would long to adorn
With glowing stars
Her brow with shining sun
In silver I would trace
The moonshine of her grace
The shining one Perfection of the skies
I knew and memories of my days
Fade away beyond my reach
And change to lonely nights
