

Belly Full of Kerosene

Hidden in Plain View

september, autumn skies are closing in and the mistake your reality at best has left you broken with wounds that re-open on every brink of sleep and a fire in your heart that never dies and never seizes and it goes up in flames your world is torched away showered by the embers of your fate being burned by every opportunity you threw away he is regretting every moment he is regretting every day fueling the fire, burning desires which fuel the pain and it goes up in flames your world is torched away
