

Ego Trip

Karmafish

Mindless cretins groped through ideosyncracy fields up rising up down

You've got laughing colors singing in your brain

    You don't know what they're saying But they're driving you insane
    You think that you're from nowhere
        And you've got no place to go
    You think that you know something But there's nothing left to know

    So you talk to broken bottles and other worldless things

    You want to get away from you
        But you just can't grow wings
            So you try

    You always lean on top of love

    You use it as a crutch You say that you're reaching out for life but you don't seem to touch
    You don't know why you fail Because you always say you try But one look inside you and I know that you lie

    Cause your eyes are like mirrors

        And those mirrors are black All that's good is given up
        And you can't get it back So you cry cry
                cry
                cry

    Your head is filled with garbage dreams and orange colored sounds
    You think that you are flying high

But you're really coming down
You dance with god's quiet Venus
And you think you'll make her swoon You offer some cheap trinket but she's already got the moon

You call upon Japanese and grobble in the ground

    You'll be a sacred sacrifice You'll die without a sound

    Then you fly fly
        fly
        cry
    ---

Lyrics submitted by Robbie Cordo.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlrics.com/>