

I Know You're Calling

Jeremy Camp

A broken image is sometimes what I see
But the hand that made me
Is the hand that won't leave me You've begun a good work that only has begun
And you always lead me
Will lead me to your son? Oh, what I want to know everything you are
What I want to see your will for me
And I know you'll show me, yeah And I know you're calling
And I see your arms stretched wide
And I feel you drawing, drawing me back again Another day I can spend with you
You turn the pages
Telling me what to do And when I feel like I want to fall again
You always lead me
Will you lead me to your hand? Oh, what I want to know everything you are
What I want to see your will for me
And I know you'll show me, I know you'll show me now And I know you're calling
And I see your arms stretched wide
And I feel you drawing, drawing me back again And I know I want everything that you want for me
Help me to understand your ways
And I know I want everything that you want for me today And I know you're calling
And I see your arms stretched wide
And I feel you drawing, drawing me back again, oh yeah And I know you're calling
And I see your arms stretched wide
And I feel you drawing, drawing me back again, oh yeah And I know you're calling, I know you're calling now
And I see your arms stretched wide
And I feel you drawing, drawing me back again
Drawing me back again
