

Assemblage of Wolves

Fallujah

Assemblage

A Servant of the horns

The oracle of truth and immortality
A shadow in our native land speaks a viper's tongue and hears a sigil unfamiliar
The ghosts whisper their locations of falsehood
A horde rides forth against the light of the sun
In defense of sacred soil, our spirit is enchanted and by their blood spilt we are cleansed.

A servant of the horns,

We are an assemblage of wolves
To take them from their Christian souls.

A shadow in our native lands speaks a viper's tongue and bears a sigil unfamiliar Angered are our pagan lords,
As we are crucified before the eyes of the hordes

Forever we lay, ever we lay

Ever are we the servants of the light of that consumes the shadow
Spit in the face of crucifixion we spill their blood in reclamation

Angered are our pagan lords, as we are crucified before the eyes of the hordes
My destiny is to spill Christian bloodlines

My loyalty lies to my native lands
