

Sunshine

Katie Noonan

She sits there, the shower water washing, washing away her fears. Her face glanced up in frustration at that voice just doesn't let up I look up and I see that smile again
I look up and I see sunshine again
I look up and I see your face again
And I see your face again She said the girl five minutes ago, I don't know who that was, I got lost and loose my way She breathes in and out, again slowly and reality creeps back in It's never like the movies... I look up and I see that smile again
I look up and I see sunshine again
I look up and I see your face again
And I see your face again
See your face again.
And I see your face again... And you lift her hand again, and you kiss away her tears, and you lift her eyes again

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>