

Break the Glass

Django Django

Waking together you lifted your head
How would it feel if we laid back forever?
Travel the world from the bed where we lie
Floating above like the ash from a fire
Doesn't it seem like we've been here before?
Over an ocean the heavens will open
Nothing is up to the visions we see
Everything's clear when we step through the mirror
Carried away to the fog in the distance
Breaking through the glass
Waking up at last, are you still there?
Face up to the facts
For guessing that we shared, step out of rhythm and fall into place
Try not to think of the hours I've wasted
Open the shutters, now how can it be?
When did this picture become so unreal?
Moving along on an endless supply
