All I Need

Sam Ock

Oh, I see the men of old... see the wars they fought, and the stories they told
Oh I want a tale of romance too, of seeking adventure and finding truth
I want to see the world and all its tales
The horrors and beauties, the victories and "fails"
But oh, with You here, how futile and grey
Is everything that isn't You, I'll always say:You are all I need, and I will sing it proudly
You are all I need, and I will sing it true
You are all I need, and I this whole world around me
Is not what I need, 'cause LORD it isn't YOU!
I apologize to everyone who thought of me as an inspirational being, 'cause I ain't what you see!
I'm just a little child, knowing that I'm reconciled
I'm unashamed of Christ and not afraid to say it loud!
Timeless, tale of every boy and every girl,
Everyone is lovesick, searching for the brazen pearl that will fill the hole in their hearts, something that won't fail and won't tear lives apart...
Ladies and gentle-warriors of the new world
I come emphatic to see the glories unfurl
Call me whatever you want, I prefer "lovestruck" with the Artist who left not the world untouched!
I want to shine the light even in my darkest days
I want to know LOVE and know for what I'm really made and with my future wife, to the One who made me
True Romance together we'll sing daily:
I'll never see the world and all its tales
The horrors and beauties, the victories and "fails"
But oh, with You here, how futile and grey
Is everything that isn't You, with You right here I'll stay!
