Bleak Visage (feat. Rue McCoy)

Kyle Shedrick

Look at me
What have I become?
My eyes ...
Are a little bit hollow, they're hollow
There's an echo in my chest where my heart used to be
No implants, please
I like the way it feels

Do you remember in the beginning all of the love we had
And everything was good?
Good, good
Do you remember in the beginning all of the love we had
And everything was good?

You used to be as warm as the sun
Look how distant you've become
Bleak visage of winter
Bleak visage of winter

You're the product of chilling winds and gloomy skies
Without a sparkle in your eyes
Your eyes have died
(Ohhh)
The brightest light
Dimmed by those who've made you cry
I'm longing for spring, yeah
(I'm longing for spring)
And everything we used to be, yeah-yeah-yeah

Do you remember in the beginning all of the love we had
And everything was good?
(Do you remember, remember, do you, do you?)
Do you remember in the beginning all of the love we had
And everything was good?

You used to be as warm as the sun
Look how distant you've become
Bleak visage of winter
Bleak visage of winter

We stood
On top
Of the world
(We stood on top of the world, boy and girl, stood on top of the world)
Never thinking
Angels
Could fall
(Fall, fall)
But that's the first sin in love
(Ahhhh)

You used to be as warm as the sun
(Now we're cold and gray)
Look how distant you've become
(Now we're numb)
Bleak visage of winter
Bleak visage of winter
