Changing Colors

It's Alive

It's just not there; it wasn't to begin with
That's okay; I'll be fine alone tonight
I'll wander in the empty space behind your...
I stayed clear to everyone around you
I watch you move, proving there's a lying truth
Losing all the things that got me lost in you!This is if you couldn't say you love me anymore
You're still changing colors trying to find what's yours
All this time was wasted, I've lost this war
You're still changing colors, I'm no longer yoursI'm ready here; you better be listenin'
I've watched your fear take you over every day
In every way you've changed
Well, I still need the way you were
Were you real, or was it all for show?
Your heart can't feel
'Cause if it could you'd stop yourself
And see the way I need for you to set me free!This is if you couldn't say you love me anymore
You're still changing colors trying to find what's yours
All this time was wasted, I've lost this war
You're still changing colors, I'm no longer yoursI said I'd never leave
But everyone makes mistakes
You swore you'd stay the same
But everyone makes mistakes
Just say the word, and let me go
Just say the word, 'cause I won't be strung alongThis is if you couldn't say you love me anymore
You're still changing colors trying to find what's yours
All this time was wasted, I've lost this war
You're still changing colors, I'm no longer yours
