Morning

Balthazar

go where you want
when you know you can change your direction
'cause it always arrives but it starts with another intention you could drive for a while but you'll never understand what has happend
to the places you left when you weren't paying any attentionyour eyes go wide in this night you were heading to
and the morning surrounding you with its gloom the trails in the back as a nightly track your eyes see the better dayyou can drive for a while but you'll never understand what has happend
your eyes see the better daygo where you want
when you know you can change your direction
when it starts with another intentionyour eyes go wide in this night you were heading to
and the morning surrounding you with its gloom
your eyes see the better day
