Alcian Blue

I feel you slipping away and I can't keep holding your weight
It's time to sink or it's time to swim
You don't see this danger you're in It's hard to get your feet off the ground
When you look and there's no one around
There's no more life that you used to know
There's no more feeling and it's starting to show

There isn't a future
If you look in your mind
You get nothing but static
In a broken disguise
Your mind has been wiped clean
There's no memories at all
If you reach out for meaning
You hit nothing but walls

Life feels like a weightless disguise
A thought drifts from behind those eyes
The daylight comes and the daylight goes
You work hard but there's nothing to show
Your mind drifts to a lonely place
The world's looking at your failing face
There's no more life that you used to know
There's no more feelings and it's starting to grow

There isn't a future
If you look in your mind
You get nothing but static
In a broken disguise
Your mind has been wiped clean
There's no memories at all
If you reach out for meaning
You hit nothing but walls
