Stay With Me Tonight

Emma Wallace

The streetlamps try to do their best but the light's faded in the west.
It's like a night straight out of Poe, and one I'd hate to be alone.
But with my ego at full mast
I cannot bring myself to ask you

Baby,
Stay with me tonight
It's a while before the light will win and I'd love to have you here to tuck me in Oh Baby,
I'd hate to be needy.
It's just the shadows seem kind of seedy,
and I'm begging you to stay here with me

I never liked those girls who cling, needing a man for everything.
With batted eyes and pouts intent, they bask in attention spent.

But one thing I envy in their best,
They wouldn't hesitate to ask you

Baby,
Stay with me tonight
It's a while before the light will win
and I'd love to have you here to tuck me in
Oh Baby,
I'd hate to be needy.
It's just the shadows seem kind of seedy,
and I'm begging you to stay here with me

I've been the same girl all along too independent, proud and strong.
More like an island than a rock than like a pillow or a dock.

But sometimes strength is just a mask

That's why tonight my love, I ask you

Baby,
Stay with me tonight
It's a while before the light will win
and I'd love to have you here to tuck me in
Oh Baby,
I'd hate to be needy.
It's just the shadows seem kind of seedy,
and I'm begging you to stay here with me

Baby,
Stay with me tonight.
It's a while before the light will win
and I'd love to have you here to tuck me in
Oh Baby,
I'd hate to be needy.
It's just the shadows seem kind of seedy,
and I'm begging you to stay here with me

Stay here with me
Stay with me
Stay here with me
