

So Well

Minnie Driver

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

I will pass by your house and not look
I won't pick up the phone, I'll read a book
I will put your pictures in a wooden box
I will fit my heart next time with fewer locks I can let you go, I can let you go but I can lie as well
Ask my friends how you doing, say you're doing well
But you can lie as well, so well I won't feel the rush of you under my skin
My poor brain will play your voice, I'm not tuning in Too soon to know, the first thing I'll forget
I can let you go but not your memory yet I can let you go, I can let you go but I can lie as well
Ask my friends how you doing, say you're doing well
But you can lie as well, so well And I will put your pictures in a wooden box
And I will find a heart next time with fewer locks I can let you go, I can let you go but I can lie as well
Ask myself how you doing, say you're doing well
But you can lie as well, so well, so well, so well
