

I See a Shadow (Not a Fantasy)

Jennifer Rush

Standing 'neath my window
Waiting to come in
Sometimes there's a sound outside my door
Reaching out to touch me
It moves on in
Getting closer, closer to when I give in I see a shadow, not a fantasy
It's gaining ground, it's coming back
So very strange, it never changes this memory
Always the same - he's dressed in black No one else can hear a sound
Or feel a thing
No one else can see the sorrow that he brings
Following close behind
Closing on in
Open arms are beckoning, inviting me I see a shadow, not a fantasy
It's gaining ground, it's coming back
So very strange, it never changes this memory
Always the same - he's dressed in black
