Shadow and Light

Moodafaruka

you take fate just like a machine unable to react with the heart of stainless steel you only count the facts you fought your soul with all your might but do believe it can be a glorious fight cynically you talk to me now you wish to be seen that way you alone challenging life jumping the waves of a day
you fought your soul with all your might
but do you believe this can be a glorious fight shadow and light are same the shades inbetween a game you get drunk on stary skies and inhale the coolness there's this deepness of sentiment running through you the world flowing in streams and is the most precious dream warm and mild and now crystalline clear you can face life without fear you're a romantic but scared of yourself always suspecting attack afraid to be caught vulnerable
unable to react
