Deep Blue Something

If I woke up one morning with my memory gone I'd pick out some clothes and I'd put 'em on And I'd walk down the street, and find a cafe

And I'd order a Guinness, and I'd sit there all dayThen some kids would come in and start a fuss About how great their weekend in New Orleans was

Then I'd look down and smile like their tale was my own

I'd be drowning in memory, and then I would knowHow it used to be in summer, so many years ago

When we really didn't worry, or care to know

Where we would be, or how old we had grown

Then I'd open my eyes and I know I wasHome, where my friends are Even when I'm not, I wish you were hereThen it would rain, like it sometimes does

And if we were bored, it wouldn't bother us

We'd just get in the car and drive through the night

And be lost in East Texas, but no one would mind'Cause we'd find our way home like we always do

Funny how the time flies in our youth

But with darkness approaching, we will all grow close
In the place we'll call Heaven but for now, we'll just call itHome, where my friends are Even when I'm not, I wish you were here
I'll see you at home
