

The Only Thing You Talk About

Destroy Rebuild Until God Shows

We all know, we all know by now
That you're the only thing you talk about So forgive me for bragging out loud
I tried to reason with myself
Tell me what could I have done Maybe I should have asked you to stay like I was gone
Then just get up and hand it away
Well babe, like they say about some things
Well I guess that they never change We all know, we all know by now
That you're the only thing you talk about
We all know, we all know by now
That things won't work out, no
You've got nothing to say You've got nothing
You've got nothing to say Some day I hope you see the consequences of your actions
I know that I can do so much more without you.
Well babe, like they say about some things
Well I guess that they never change We all know, we all know by now
That you're the only thing you talk about
We all know, we all know by now
That things won't work out, no
I never really had a doubt
That things would end up to be this way
And I never meant to make them seem this way You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing I knew as soon as I left that you would go and fuck someone else you whore We all know, we all know by now
That you're the only thing you talk about
We all know, we all know by now
That things won't work out, no
I never really had a doubt
That things would end up to be this way
And I never meant to make them seem this way You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing to say
You've got nothing.

Songwriters

Owens, Craig / Feldmann, John / Good, Matt / Martin, Nicholas / Stern, Aaron Published by Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>