These Are the Things About You

Ivy

You can really stare
You can stare a thousand miles
And yet still I know exactly what you seeYou can really care
You can care about the things that happen
To the strangers that you never meetThese are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I knowThere is so much here
There is so much that defines you
In the things you keep inside and never showIt is really clear
There is more behind that smile
As you're walking down the driveway in the snowThese are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I knowThese are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I knowThese are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I knowThese are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I know
