

These Are the Things About You

Ivy

You can really stare
You can stare a thousand miles
And yet still I know exactly what you see
You can really care
You can care about the things that happen
To the strangers that you never meet
These are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I know
There is so much here
There is so much that defines you
In the things you keep inside and never show
It is really clear
There is more behind that smile
As you're walking down the driveway in the snow
These are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I know
These are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I know
These are the things about you
These are the things about you
These are the things about you I know
These are the things about you I know
