

All Points (Acoustic)

James Vincent McMorrow

In the canyon I was started young
In the ocean, in the valley run
There was hope that time would disappear in the smoke and when the valley clears And I think about the cold air I've been thinking about cold air And I was (I was) in the dark I was (I was) in the dark, I was In imaginary destiny reached the palms and stretched around the skin Every breath that echoes endlessly every point to ever let it leave Still I'm thinking of the cold air always thinking of the cold air And I was (I was) in the dark I was (I was) in the dark, I was Tripping the call, distance is you Lifting it out, we kept it with odds Thinking the motion that been hurt Sitting in my fortress still I'm in the dark Spilling in to fallness of it all And I've been thinking bout the cold air always thinking of the cold air And I was in the dark I was in the dark, I was

Songwriters

JAMES MCMORROW Published by

Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>