

Visions

Chrom

We gotta make our own decisions
Nobody can tell us what to do
Keep your eyes on your strongest visions
The right people will see it too
The whole world just keeps on turning
But it's high time for a break
You've been tired, but now you're burning
You're still breathing, you're awake
There are things we can't explain
But the hope will still remain
Now it's time to make a change
In this world it seems so strange
And I'm sure that this could be
Our fate and destiny
'Cause we're all the same right now
We've gotta make it somehow
Just try to keep your passion
'Cause your light is shining through
Let this thought be your obsession
'Cause your mind can make it true
The whole world just keeps on turning
But it's high time for a break
You've been tired, but now you're burning
You're still breathing, you're awake
There are things we can't explain
But the hope will still remain
Now it's time to make a change
In this world it seems so strange
And I'm sure that this could be
Our fate and destiny
'Cause we're all the same right now
We've gotta make it somehow
