Alpenglow

S. Carey

I've been waiting on the proper time I was hoping that you'd take my night make it pure and make it still you will, you were, you will all mine
you were saying: "When you know, you know." when we were walking in New Year's first snow.
Hushed white in Alpenglow you lay, we lay, we lay all day
I was wondering if you'd be my wife be the compass in my rugged life come as quick, and leave until you will, you will, you will
all mine
I was hoping you would walk with me down the aisles, your light gathering. leave your child with legacy we lay, we lay, we lay
all day
and when she came, I grabbed her and I dipped her in the lake, and seldom seen a side of me beneath my feet the earth did shake and I can't come down, I'm floating in Spring and swelling from the sound, and I am driftward found.
