

Forever Starts Today

Disciple

Don't pull the plug now
A waiting room that's cold and lonely
An eternity in purgatory
The beginning of an endless story Still I waited for the medicine to flow beneath your skin You open up your eyes and take your first true breath in I've been hanging on the edge to hear you say, "Forever"
I was holding on, I kept holding on to the hope that one day
You would lay down your heart
at the altar of grace and surrender
I've been hanging on the edge to hear you say that forever starts today I'll never forget the memories when you were searching Watching every bitter step of your journey Every hour the suspense was burning Still I waited for the Holy Ghost to make his presence known You open up your arms and finally let yourself go I've been hanging on the edge
to hear you say, "Forever"
I was holding on, I kept holding on
to the hope that one day
You would lay down your heart
at the altar of grace and surrender
I've been hanging on the edge to hear you say
that forever starts today
I've been hanging on the edge
to hear you say, "Forever"
I'm never gonna let you go I've been hanging on the edge
to hear you say, "Forever"
I was holding on, I kept holding on
to the hope that one day
You would lay down your heart at the altar of grace and surrender I've been hanging on the edge to hear you say, "Forever"

I was holding on, I kept holding on
to the hope that one day
You would lay down your heart
at the altar of grace and surrender
I've been hanging on the edge to hear you say
