

No One Left to Blame

Mat McHugh

And when the stars are busy falling at your feet
Would you be busy calling after me
Would i be anywhere you wanna go
Would you say anything to give me hope
I dream that under water i can breathe
I dream to come the day i'll be released
Been drowned about the beating of my heart
I'd sleep, but i could fall apart
It's killing me slow
This weight on my shoulders
Been breaking my bones
Been hoping you know this
You know this mean go
Or would you away from me
Or would you take your time,
Turn and walk away
And leave me stay behind
So tell me do you know
If you would feel the same
With no one left to blame
And when the lights are busy shining on you name?
Would remember when we were the same
When every thought we share was full of hope
When no one know how far this thing would go
Now days have come and days have gone away
Now i've been wondering how things have changed
That's when i fall apart and cry it on the night
That's wrong, but maybe still that's right
It's killing me slow
This weight on my shoulders
Been breaking my bones
Been hoping you know this
You know this mean go
Or would you away from me
Or would you take your time,
Turn and walk away
And leave me stay behind
So tell me do you know?
If you would feel the same
Take those days, those ways, there's no one left to blame
Take those rains, those strains, there's no one left to blame
Take those lies, those times, there's no one left to blame
Retrace, rewind, resign, there's no one left to blame
