

The Man Who Came To Stay (Kentish Town)

Babyshambles

There's a man who came to stay
The boy he replaced, disappeared without a trace
Stole all my songs and my style away
No one would say what they wanted to say
So he was king for a day If you sail into the sun
Beware the eyes of green
And if the whole room tells you, "You are the one"
I defy you not to believe them, my son There's a man who came to stay, never showing on time
Out of his mind, diddly doo, doo dine
Every single gig I play, something's not right inside
Paranoia and pride, nowhere to hide If you sail into the sun, la, la, la, la, la
Beware the eyes of green
And if the whole world tells you 'you are the one'
You must be hearing those voices again my son

Songwriters

Peter Doherty; Patrick George Walden Published by

WARNER/CHAPPELL MUSIC, LTD.; ROUGH TRADE MUSIC LTD Song Discussions is protected by U.S.
Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>