Heavy

Holly Brook

Now I've come to cry
Shed your skin to rest my naked eye
And criticize
All that I implore
Seems to be one foot outside that door
Coming between me and waking
Underneath the corset of your mystery
Piece by piece undress you from your history
I'm sleeping with seclusion in sweet disarray
You can go heavy on me
And I will not weigh you down, down, down
You can be steady and clean, I can take it
Heavy on me and I will not weigh you down, no
Born unto this pride
Silence is something you can't hide
You can't deny us
Nothing has been said

Yet so many words have filled my head
And now they completely surround me
Tie the lines of honest conductivity
Caught between the center of our gravity
I don't have that much time to burn anymore
You can go heavy on me
And I will not weigh you down, down, down
You can be steady and clean and I can take it
Heavy on me and I will not weigh you down
Underneath the corset of your mystery
Piece by piece undress you from your history
I'm sleeping with seclusion in sweet disarray
You can go heavy on me
And I will not weigh you down, down, down
You can be steady and clean, I can take it
Heavy on me and I will not weigh you down, no
And I will not weigh you down
