Scream

Sarah Bettens

I used to know I was always right
Too old to be cute, too small to mind
I sometimes say things really loud
I've found out that volume can make up for content droughtScream, until you lose your breath
Force your way inside some youthful soul tonight
Teach him only you are rightI used to know how to change the world
I lie awake at night and envy that girl
Sometimes I think it's not that hard
To tell the good and bad apart
And that idea confirms my fear
I'm not the brightest person hereScream, until you lose your breath
Force your way inside some youthful soul tonight
Teach him only you are rightI changed my mind a million times
I know now for sure that that's alrightScream, until you lose your breath
Force your way inside some youthful soul tonight
Teach him only you are right
Force your way inside some youthful soul tonight
Teach him only you are right

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/