Phone Down (feat. Emily Warren)

Lost Kings

This room's so quiet
I can hear the sound of silence
Right here in your arms
And I'm falling asleep to your heartbeat
It's just you and I
Shadows in the passing headlights
And I think for a moment
You won't let go of me
But suddenly that bright blue
Is glowing in this dark room
You turn away like I'm not here at all
Why don't you put that fucking phone down?
Darling, so we could be alone now
Can't you just be here when the lights go out
Why don't you ever put that phone down?
What could be so goddamn important
That it can't wait until the morning?
You got me right here with my clothes off now
Why don't you put that fucking phone down?
Yeah, the first thing you do
Is when I reach out my hand to touch you
Are you hiding something from me?
Cause you moved when I get close
Oh, I hate that bright blue
It's glowing in this dark room
You turn away like I'm not here at all
Why don't you put that fucking phone down?
Darling, so we could be alone now
Can't you just be here when the lights go out
Why don't you ever put that phone down?
What could be so goddamn important
That it can't wait until the morning?
You got me right here with my clothes off now
Why don't you put that fucking phone down?
You're killing the moment
The window is closing
It's only supposed to be two of us
Put that phone down
Please, put that phone down

Now I'm feeling awkward
It's actually torture
You're making a fool of the both of us
Put that phone down
Please, put that phone down
Why don't you put that fucking phone down?
Darling, so we could be alone now
Can't you just be here when the lights go out
And just put that phone down?
What could be so goddamn important
That it can't wait until the morning?
You got me right here with my clothes off now
Why don't you put that fucking phone down?
