Beautiful Transformation

Brooke Hogan

It's that beautiful transformation
It's that beautiful transformation
The older I get the more often I get feelings I can't explain
Mostly in the [Incomprehensible] the 99 percent of things I did not say
I've suddenly evolved from nothing at all to somewhat lady like
My clothes begin to fit and jeans they hug my hips
To catch the young boys eyes
What [Incomprehensible] fear suppression
Let me question, still I'm guessing
What you're talking, pressures on end
Fascination with a beautiful transformation
Like a butterfly changing into my own skin
And the tears I cry, by the latest sign to win
It's that beautiful transformation I'm in
It's getting harder to reject, opportunities are meant to take it further now
I'm feeling wonderful temptations
Gets my body's revelation into another world, yeah
I've suddenly realized I can't keep holding what's inside in anymore, oh
It's never in the day but always late at night that these feelings occur
What [Incomprehensible] I fear suppression
Let me question, still I'm guessing
What you're talking, the pressures on end
Fascination, it's that beautiful transformation
Like a butterfly changing into my own skin
And the tears I cry, by the latest sign to win
It's that beautiful transformation I'm in
Now I can shake my hips with the confidence that I got this
Knowing that I control what I got is priceless
Every little part of me that I have is precious
It's that beautiful, it's that beautiful, it's that beautiful transformation
Like a butterfly changing into my own skin, oh
And the tears I cry, by the latest sign to win
It's that beautiful transformation I'm in
Like a butterfly changing into my own skin
It's that beautiful transformation
And the tears I cry by the latest sign to win
It's that beautiful transformation I'm in
It's that beautiful transformation, beautiful transformation I'm in
It's that beautiful transformation I'm in
