Done You Wrong

Aaron Pritchett

Here we are again and you sure look fine you smile at me and the sparks just fly I can't understand why this is taking so long somebody must have really done you wrong'Cause everytime I reach for you, you hold back and i'm so confused how can you pull away from something so strong somebody must have really done you wrongHe hurt you bad, and your heart still aches but why should we pay for his mistakes ohhh why I don't know what he did but he's long gone well he must have really done you wrong'Cause everytime I reach for you,
you hold back and i'm so confused
how can you pull away from something so strong somebody must have really done you wrongI wanna tear down the walls that you built up and baby open your heart to all my loveeverytime I reach for you,
you hold back and i'm so confused
how can you pull away from something so strong somebody must have really, really somebody must have really done you wrongsomebody must have really done you wrong somebody must have really done you wrong done you wrong, really, really, really done you wrong

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/