

For Some Ol' Redneck Reason

Justin Moore

(feat. Charlie Daniels)

I love tearin'™ down some country road as the red sun™s sinking down
Nothing but corn and cotton fields for miles and miles around
Down every twist and turn, there's™ another million dollar view
Some folks might not see it
But for some old redneck reason I do
I still wear my beat up boots and my old worn out jeans
I still say the blessing when I sit down to eat
And you can bet I mind my manners every time my momma walks in the room
Some folks don't™ think that matters
But for some old redneck reason I do

Yeah, for some old redneck reason, sometimes I get the feelin'™
Maybe I give too much of it now
I'm™ a little old fashion leanin'™, out of style and out of season
But I reckon that's™ just the way I am

Sometimes I lay here thinkin'™ â€˜bout the good old times that we had Wonder why it all went wrong or the night it all went bad
And I probably shouldn't™ call you up, thinkin'™ I can patch things up with you
Oh, but when I get to drinking Crown, for some old redneck reason I do

Yeah, for some old redneck reason, sometimes I get the feelin'™
Maybe I give too much of it now
I'm™ a little old fashion leanin'™, out of style and out of season
But I reckon that's™ just the way I am

I was standing behind a couple teenage kids at a high school football game
They didn't™ take their hats off when the national anthem played
And I felt like jerkin a knot in their tail, for disrespecting the old Red, White and Blue
Aw maybe I shouldn't™ get fightin'™ mad
But for some old redneck reason I do
