

Cassiopeia

DJ Arroway

Come in close now, it's time to tell a story
Long ago and so many years before we Ever were, ever dreamed we even could be
There was her and her very first heartbeat
All alone in the corner of the night sky
Spiral bones of a supernova starlight
Fell in love with another burning bright she Dreamed of a way to ignite she said, Tonight
Come on, come on
Collide
Break me to pieces, I
I think you're just like heaven why
Come on, come on collide
Let's see what a fire feels like
I bet it's just like heaven
Just like heaven
Such a shame
Nowhere near, even the near mist light years away
From the hope of being sun-kissed
Anchored home
In her interstellar sea but, poor lonely Cassiopeia
So she sighs and she burns with desperation
Learns to cry over love of constellations
Then the spark from a star shooting too close
They both smiled
What a day to explode, she said
Tonight
Come on, come on collide
Break me to pieces, I
I think you're just like heaven why
Come on, come on collide
Let's see what a fire feels like
I bet it's just like heaven
Just like heaven
Long ago in a sky built before us
A supernova grew up to be stardust
