

Pay the Waitress

The Fire Tonight

take me to the coastline way down south let me hear your frozen, black heart beating out people use their fists you just use your mouth won't you teach me baby how to twist and shout better buy yourself new friends tonight ring around the Rosie, pull the plug bent on raising hell and you're just sporting a mug like you buy you can't dance, you're no fun you're slowly but surely eating us one by one better buy yourself new friends tonight you should know something's wrong when you gotta ask the beer is gone you're alone and they booked it fast take your place at the bar as your part of the cast pay the waitress a dollar for your new past
