Find A Way To Say Goodbye

Blue Rodeo

I think I'm finally getting tired of this gameEvery night goes just the sameYou try to talk to me about your sorrow and your painBut I end up walking out on you again
I watch you lying on the bedCurtains blowing 'round your headI see the pictures of the two of us in time
A world we left so far behindNow I get comfort in the nightLosing my head to the colours and the lights
You know I tried to be what you want me to beBut I always come up short, I knowI'm not the one you really needNow I don't wonder, no I don't wonder at allWhy the same things that once held us up
Are the reasons now we fallMaybe we won't come throughMaybe it's all been a lieTil we find a way to say goodbyeAnd as I'm walking out the doorI know I've been here many times beforeBut I could never take the sorrow from your faceOr sweep the darkness from this placeNow I get comfort in the nightLosing my head to the colours and the lightsI tried to be everything that you want me to beBut when I wake up in the night
I know I'll never be the one you needNow I don't wonder, no I don't wonder at all
Why the same things that once held us upAre the reasons now we stumble and fallMaybe we won't come through,
Maybe we're wasting our timeTil we find a way to say goodbye
