

Don't You Know

Jacob Collier

Sticks and stones, I won't hide from you no more
And in time I find what I've been searching for I heard your voice calling out to me
I'm on my way to where I can be free And if she won't wait for me, do it right, don't look back, keep my eye on the future
On the soles of my shoes are the places I've been, that I've known since I knew her 'Cause it's you, don't you know that you're making me guess that you're the one for me
And that it's you that I guess that I wanted to know all along
And that it's you that I want, that it makes me complete, 'cause you're the one for me
It's next to you that I guess that I want you to know I belong
Every time I lose my feeling true
Lost for words so lead me back to you
In my dreams, I'm calling out your name You're my beacon, but I light the flame ya Now let's fly on my wings, through the night, don't look back, now I don't want to lose her
In the sky are the sounds of the night, now I know that I couldn't refuse her 'Cause it's you, don't you know that you're making me guess that you're the one for me
And that it's you that I guess that I wanted to know all along
And that it's you that I want, that it makes me complete, 'cause you're the one for me
It's next to you that I guess that I want you to know I belong Up above the universe aglow
And the world is turning down below
Feel the day through the coldest night Light my way, give me strength to burn bright Now take me up to the sky, open mind, far away from the heavens below me
Make it slow, keep my soul, give me strength in my bones, now you can't really save me
'Cause it's you, don't you know that you're making me guess that you're the one for me
And that it's you that I guess that I wanted to know all along
And that it's you that I want, that it makes me complete, 'cause you're the one for me
It's next to you that I guess that I want you to know I belong
