

Pivot

Autopilot Off

I can't see the future

I can't read your mind

What once seemed bright and hopeful now is gone and left behind

Until you know what you want

You can't expect me to understand your logic or explain the things you doDon't try to pin the blame on me

You've run me dry of everything

I try to speak unanswered

Too many times you've walked away

You only hear what's right for you
