Faces In the Hall

Gym Class Heroes

I knew this kid named Alberto, funny style cat And his girl looked like a turtle Not Lisa Turtle, just a turtle High school track, he ran the hurdle His peers shed tears senior year when he got murderedNow Alberto was your average A student Participated in class, never came late and never truant His family was picture perfect His older sister was prom queen His dad a decorated vet from the Vietnam teamHis mother was Dear Abby, an ordinary house wife Like clockwork, always had dinner on the table at 5 But Alberto had a monster he kept under his bed Instead of letting it out he just got a girlfriend insteadShe knew something was funny, she could tell by his behavior Or the way he flamboyantly shook his hand When he would wave to her She thought nothing of it and just shoved it in the closet Until the day that word dripped out like leaky faucetAlberto was homosexual, I ain't have nothing against it But little Ronnie Johnson and all his football player friends did They'd always pick and nag, call him, "Fag" and such and such And couldn't wait to get to gym so they could really bust his nutsThe gym teacher never cared He'd just join in on the action, he'd make silly gestures And compared him to Micheal Jackson Alberto couldn't take it He'd just stop showing up and whenever he walked them halls He just felt like throwin' upAnd night he would cry and cry and ask, "God why?" Like, "God, why the fuck'd I have to be born this way?" God would reply, "Son, you've gotta show 'em you're more than gay" 'Cause he had dreams to be a track star Until that warm April night them gay jokes went way too farRonnie begged for his forgiveness and invited him to a party 'Cause his parents went away and left him plenty of Bacardi Alberto kindly accepted, he was finally accepted Except it was all deception and left them all unprotectedIt was a plan, Ronnie had scammed to get him in the right place Verbally degrade and rearrange his pretty face The plan would go swiftly, they started calling him sissy One punch turned into fifty, they beat him till he was dizzyNow Alberto lie in blood while his peers look on in fear

He took his last breath and passed away his senior year

Needless to say it was one big tragedy And how was ronnie gonna explain to his familyWhile they were on vacation taking in sights He got wasted and killed a kid that night Don't be a slave and behave the way they do Just utilize the gifts that God gave youDon't be a slave and behave the way they do Just utilize the gifts that God gave you Don't be a slave and behave the way they do Just utilize the gifts that God gave you Don't be a slave and behave the way they do Just utilize the gifts that God gave youI knew this girl named Maria, bright and talented With aspirations to be a big superstar What a great idea Until she fell off and started to listening to her peers Oh, dearNow maria was your typical obnoxious Analytical head strong rebel Flippin' off the principal, single mother home structure She looked after baby brother while mom worked two jobs Just to buy supperPops was a struggling musician, troubled man Juggling family and heroin addiction He overdosed and left a notice of eviction And a crate of records on the table in the kitchenAnd a little angel with a keen sense of sound Who saw silence in the records she found And she would stay up late at night Reciting songs to herself under pale moonlightRighting wrongs that her pops made Promised her mom she'd never go that same route Turns out Carrie Anne had other plans Her and her man Ronnie most popular Second best to nobodyHomecoming queen versus ugly duckling And the story ends the same way Okay, Ronnie's parents went away for a couple of days And told him, "No drinking" What the fuck were they thinking? Maria was oblivious that her boyfriend had already been invited So when Carrie Anne asked she got all excited Like, "Damn now I got something to look forward to" Or so she thought, Maria kindly accepted She was finally accepted, except it was all bullshitNot pay attention Carrie Anne hated Maria 'cause she could sing So she scored a bag of heroin but the craziest thing was Maria never touched drugs, she did that nightAnd when her man was getting beat she was nowhere in sight Now her boyfriend lie in blood and she had no idea Alberto passed away and she got hooked her senior year Needless to say it was one one big tragedyAnd I hate to break it but it doesn't end happily A warm day in May, the sky was so beautiful Carrie Anne died in a crash leaving the funeral

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/