Enhance my Nightmare

Sonic Syndicate

Walking the Elysian fields
From the tree the snake watches you
Can you feel your dying heart?
It can no longer stand the temptationWipe out the flashbacks
From the depths of my caved in heart
Trample my utopia
Memories force my mind to tear apartWe both ate from the serpent's tree
I cannot blame us for burning all the bridges
Close that coffin, strike the last nail
And tell me why is my soul this frailYou said you'd be far away
But so is the sun and it still burns
You promised time would heal our wounds
But the scars will always remind usEndless struggle with my mind ghost
It haunts my every step, my every thought
This body is nothing but a shell
Just to enhance my never-ending nightmareWe both ate from the serpent's tree
I cannot blame us for burning all the bridges
Close that coffin, strike the last nail
And tell me why is my soul this frailYou said you'd be far away
But so is the sun and it still burns
You promised time would heal our wounds
But the scars will always remind usYou said you'd be far away
But so is the sun and it still burns
You promised time would heal our wounds
But the scars will always remind usYou said you'd be far away
But so is the sun and it still burns
You promised time would heal our wounds
But the scars will always remind usYou said you'd be far away
But so is the sun and it still burns
You promised time would heal our wounds
But the scars will always remind us
