

Loved Too Much

Ty Herndon

You say you love me a little
You say you want to stay friends
You say you don't want no strings attached
No one on you to dependYou see love as a prison
I see love as a key
You think a little is more than enough
It's not that way for meI need to be loved too much
I need to be held too tight
I need to hear someone say at the end of the day
I'll make everything right
When the rest of the world goes home
I need to feel someone's touch
I've been alone too long
Now I need to be loved too muchToo much sun will burn you
Too much rain you'll drown too
Too much cold will freeze you
Too much wind will blow you downBut love is something different
That disregards the rules
You call me a dreamer
But sometimes dreams come trueI need to be loved too much
I need to be held too tight
I need to hear someone say at the end of the day
I'll make everything right
When the rest of the world goes home
I need to feel someone's touch
I've been alone too long
Now I need to be loved too muchI need to be loved too much
I need to be held too tight
I need to hear someone say at the end of the day
I'll make everything right
When the rest of the world goes home
I need to feel someone's touch
I've been alone too long
Now I need to be loved too muchOh, I need to be loved too much
Yes, I need to be loved too much
