

Marina

Dorival Caymmi

Marina coming off of methadone
Kicking and dreaming
And she's sleeping and screaming
Watching '90210'
She'll be yelling at the screen
Until the late night show
"I don't believe I'm alive", she said
Everyday has something new
Aw, baby, with the moon I lie
And with the sun I will rise
It's all there in her eyes
You don't know how hard I try
Each time that Marina cries
It's like she's got no disguise
Stop

Marina is a human bicycle
She's riding in the park, riding after dark
Spinning her wheels to make a spark
And hoping to change her blame into a plague
She plays guitar, she dreams and sings
She writes a song about what it means
That she never feels
Much like a human being
It's all there in her eyes
Every time Marina cries
You don't know how hard I try
It's like she's got no disguise
You don't know how hard I try
Every time Marina cries
