Saved Me

Chase Rice

Most of the time, I can't shut my damn mouth
And most of the time, my heart's too proud
I push 'em away, quick as they came
A living run awayMost of my life, I've lived on the dark side
And most of my nights, I smoke and drink too much
I've broken hearts once or twice
This time it feels likeLiving on the edge, falling fast and hard
Follow your life, it ain't falling apart
Like a clock striking midnight you never saw coming
But it's right on time, and it stops you running
Leave it to me to play the fool
Who thinks numbing the pain makes you bulletproof
It takes hell and a lie to lead to the truth
But letting go of all of that means holding onto you
Ain't too many bridges that I ain't burned
Ain't too many reasons you should be here
It's either luck or God, and I don't care
Whoever's there, heard my prayersLiving on the edge, falling fast and hard
Follow your life, it ain't falling apart
Like a clock striking midnight you never saw coming
But it's right on time, and it stops you running
Leave it to me to play the fool
Who thinks numbing the pain makes you bulletproof
It takes hell and a lie to lead to the truth
But letting go of all of that means holding onto youHolding onto you
It's almost like you were sent here to save me
And you saved me
Living on the edge, falling fast and hard
Follow your life, it ain't falling apart
Like a clock striking midnight you never saw coming
But it's right on time, and it stops you running
Leave it to me to play the fool
Who thinks numbing the pain makes you bulletproof
It takes hell and a lie to lead to the truth
But letting go of all of that means holding onto youI'm holding onto you
It's almost like you were sent here to save me
And you saved me
