

Bitter They Are, Harder They Fall

Anne Murray

I told him to leave me alone
That's what he's done, just what he's done
And a house built for two ain't a home
When it's lived in by one, one lonely one
And I can no longer hear footsteps
From right down the hall
Here come the teardrops
Bitter they are, harder they fall
He caught me lying then he caught a train
Then I caught a fever walking home in the rain
Well, it's over and I'm done
He's left me once and for all
Here come the teardrops
Bitter they are, harder they fall
