

Blow Away

Joshua Radin

Is there anybody out here to find you
Is there anybody here who believes
Is there anybody out here to lead you back to your home
When it's too dark to see Maybe I need to look upon you
In a different way than I've done
Maybe I need to say the words I've been holding back
Maybe this time I won't run away I know enough about you to want to know everything
I know it's going to take time All I want is to hold you
I should have told you
What's on my mind long ago
But I can't find a way to
Say that I need you
My words just blow away So if you find that you're lonely
Too tired to breathe the morning air
No one feels that you're their only
No one seems to really care
Well I know enough about you
To want to know everything
Now I've got nothing but time All I want is to hold you
I should have told you
What's on my mind long ago
But I can't find a way to
Say that I need you
My words just blow away Well I know enough about you
To want to know everything
I've got nothing but time All I want is to hold you
I should have told you
What's on my mind long ago
But I can't find a way to
Say that I need you All I want is to hold you
I should have told you
What's on my mind long ago
But I can't find a way to
Say that I need you My words just blow away
My words just blow away

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>