Life Again

Decyfer Down

I don't remember the last time I could say I was where I wanted to be still you see through this mask hiding all my flaws you see something down deep in me...Bring me back so that I can feel you again take me to that place I was before all I want is to hold my head up high so take this life and set aflame againStill I linger around a life unchanged I just cant break the cycle now I feel I've lost my hope trapped in my own mind break these thoughts that are clouding me.Bring me back so that I can feel you again take me to that place I was before all I want is to hold my head up high so take this life and set aflame again Again, Again, set my life aflame again...Bring me back so that I can feel you again take me to that place I was before all I want is to hold my head up high so take this life and set aflame againBring me back so that I can feel you again take me to that place I was before all I want is to hold my head up high

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/

so take this life and set aflame again