

Winter's Song

Cowboy Junkies

She says, "It's cold where you brought me"

He says, "Darling, don't worry

You can stay in my arms until the springtime comes

We'll let the snow drift around us

And wait for the robin and the crocus

To tell us that our love has again found the sun"Lonely oak stands tall, bare arms scratch the sky

Dry leaves cracking beneath our feet

Hand in hand we've watched the autumn fires burn

Summer's dreams collapsing, chestnuts in need of gathering

The whole world lies rotting in the streetAnd soon we will walk with collars high

Like ramparts raised for the siege

We'll bow to her beauty cower from her fury

Sent as a judgment for a slight long past forgotten

Winter's love once again unrequited

Winter's love once again unrequitedShe says, "Babe are you sleeping?"

He says, "No, wide awake and thinking

Of a dream I just had about the two of us"

He takes his hand to her cheek now

His lips to her brow their whispers pile softly

By the foot of the bed
