

Love Again

Plain White T's

She dances with herself in her socks and nothing else
Kicking tiny circles in the dust on the floor
She's a site to be hold, crawling up to her pillow
It's impossible to hide that I love her
Goodbye heartache, I'll never have to wake alone
On the wrong side of the bed
Those days are gone, my troubles moving on
Now that I've found love again!
We'll be wasting away on the dock, down by the lake
Bottle in the raise of late summer sun
And when the evening comes, she'll be chasing lightning bugs
I'm never gonna need another one
Goodbye heartache, I'll never have to wake alone
On the wrong side of the bed
Uuh, those days are gone, my troubles moving on
Now that I've found love again!
Uuh, we'll take shelter in the pouring rain
Well, this bed would be an island
Who knew that love could feel this way
'Cause every kiss upon my lips is nothing [?]
Goodbye heartache, I'll never have to wake alone
On the wrong side of the bed
Uuh, those days are gone, my troubles moving on
Now that I've found love again!
Uuh, now that I've found love again!

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>