Lay Your Burden Down

Gov't Mule

It's heavy, lay your burden down
It's heavy, lay your burden downBrother, can't you see stars in the night?
Brother, can't you see stars in the night?
There's a road up yonder far beyond the lightTake a ride this morning on a slow train through the sky
Take a ride this morning on a slow train through the sky
My life is just a fast train, gone in the blink of an eyeIt's heavy, lay your burden down
It's heavy, lay your burden downFelt the hand last Sunday when the stars refused to shine
Felt the hand on Sunday when the stars refused
Refused, refused to shine
And I'm just a young man, I don't feel like dyingIt's heavy, lay your burden down
It's heavy, lay your burden downCan't you hear the angels screaming?
Is it, is it, is it, is it in my head now?
Can't you hear the angels screaming?
Tell me, tell me, tell me, is it in my head?I'm looking out my window, sky is blood red
Sky is blood red, yeah
You got to lay your burden down

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/