

If I Knew

Joan Baez

If I knew where the wild dove flew
I would not tell the hunter, but I would tell you
Though they say you're not a brave man, hardly a man at all
You would not shoot the wild things, like brave men in the fall
Mm mm If I knew where calypso bloomed,
I would not tell the ladies, but I would tell you
For you would not take the flower, for money or for love
Or harm a single petal, 'cause you would not shoot the dove
Mm mm If I knew where our green love grew
I would not tell the others, but I would tell you
For 'though the world may call you craven, I know it is not true
And 'though a sword may hang between us, my songs are all for you
Mm mm

Songwriters

DUSHECK, NINA/MARDEN, PAULINE Published by

Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>